“His Alien Baby” is a uniquely developed romance short story about two guys who help each other out with breaking the boundaries they live under. They start as college students, running into each other at a crucial moment of their lives. As Victor has a hard time unveiling the mysteries Nick hides beneath his appearance, the story progresses into a turn of the wheel, namely a stage when Victor is actually the one that keeps something a secret, and Nick develops the role of the investigator. Their adventures portraying their personal progress bring them up to a point where their stories entangle, thus alluding to only one possible resolution. The story covers two separate periods of their encounters, both of which portray how their bond strengthens, with the reflection of the conceited simplicity being always present. Their obscure cloaks seem to break at the very end, hence providing both the two of them and the readers with the realization of the purpose of their lives.
